Twenty-two members of her crew were taken prisoners.

Adoption of resolution in favour of taking steps for fusion of party with General Smuts Loyalist Dutch party. This means that two parties will be unconditionally merged as one moderate and constitutional party prepared to maintain as Sir Thomas Smart, Unionist Leader described it "Sacred the binding the union to the British commonwealth." International ceremony took place in quadrangle of foreign office to-day, when Lloyd George accompanied by Bonar Law and Sir Edgar Greenwood Secretary of State for Ireland inspected detachment of Royal Irish Constabulary and Cadets of Auxiliary Division of Royal Irish Constabulary. Both detachments had come from Ireland to form escort at funerals of two of their comrades who were recruited in London and who were murdered by Sinn Feiners. Some of the men were introduced personally to the Premier who chatted informally with them. The little ceremony ended by men giving three cheers for the Premier. Of various devices employed by the British Navy and Mercantile Marine during war as protection against enemy mines none has attracted public imagination more than the paravane, and Royal Commission has now recommended awards aggregating three hundred and seventy thousand sterling for invention which led to the protection of this ingenious system. The paravane has been described as a water kite which moves along parallel to ship in such a manner that mines are deflected from ships bow along wires to paravane when a sharp knife automatically cuts the moorings and mines harmlessly explode. Main credit for invention and development of paravane is attributed to Commander Burney and this resourceful officer has received three hundred and fifty thousand sterling. Six other claimants have received payments. The Admiralty are considering scheme for erecting on beach at South Sea near Portsmouth a memorial to officers and men of British Navy who lost their lives during the war, and whose bodies were not recovered. Novel demonstrations are being made at big motor exhibition at White City by jumping automobile. First demonstration was made yesterday when driver calmly smoking a cigarette put car travelling at twenty two miles an hour over a hurdle five feet high landing quite safely on the other side.

WRANGEL APPEALS TO ALLIES FOR HELP

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Further dispatches confirming the extreme gravity of the position of General Baron Wrangel, head of the anti-Bolshevik, anti-Soviet forces of Russia, have been received by French Foreign Office but are being withheld temporarily. With the capture by the Bolsheviks of Perekop and the surrounding territory regarded as the key to the Isthmus, fears are now expressed in French official circles that General Wrangel's very existence in Crimea may be seriously endangered. It is reliably reported that General Wrangel has sent an urgent appeal to France and other Allied powers telling of the critical situation confronting him, and requesting more aid. From an authoritative source it was learned to-day that France feels it is now too late to give further assistance to Wrangel.

23 YET TO BUILD

35 Vessels Completed For The Merchant Marine.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—Thirty-five cargo vessels already have been completed and are flying the ensign of the Canadian government merchant marine in the seven seas.

The shipbuilding program of the government contemplates the construction of sixty-three vessels in all, with an aggregate tonnage of 376,725, and at a total cost of $72,332,940. The completed vessels are now being operated in conjunction with the Canadian National railways.

Arrangements now are being made with the liquidator of the Dominion Shipbuilding Co., of Toronto, for the completion of the two 3,500-ton ships which that corporation had under contract; about three-quarters of the work had been completed when the firm went into liquidation. The department of marine will either undertake to complete the work itself or have it done through the liquidator.

THREE BARRELS OF BEEF, THAT'S ALL

It turns out that the three barrels unloaded at Steers Cove last night are really three barrels of beef stolen several years ago and that they are the property of Mr. Thomas Smyth, the commission merchant of Water St. As to who the original thief was is not yet known but it will be an easy matter to locate the individual.

We have seen the three barrels and shook them. They are now at the Police Station but can find no place in the booze department. An expert cooper has been engaged to open up the packages this afternoon.

The Irish Question

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Two interesting although unofficial, attempts are being made to solve the Irish question. It developed to-day. EDG-FATTENING ECONOMY.

More Draft Horses are Now Being Sold for City Use Than for Many Years.

(By THE COUNTRYMAN.)

Cuttings of grape vines may be taken now and stored in sand or sawdust until next spring, and then set out.

If the foliage of house plants is sprayed or washed from time to time it will help a lot in keeping the plants vigorous.

As soon as frost kills the foliage of grape vines they can be pruned, and where practicable the vines can be laid on the ground ready to cover with earth.

Where heavy snows are likely it is a good plan to draw the branches of currant bushes together and tie them, to prevent the snow from breaking them down.

Not only is the Russian Mammoth sunflower ornamental and an effective screen to hide an unsightly spot, but the seeds make a good ingredient for the chicken feed, especially during the molting period.

Horse dealers report a good year and they are confident that the horse is "coming back." An authority states that more draft horses are now being sold for city use than for many years past. Increased production of good horses is held to be a great need at present.

Experiments in Fattening Hogs.

Experimental work by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture has shown the following facts in connection with fattening swine: That a ration of corn alone is too expensive and should be supplemented by feeds such as tankage, linseed meal, soybeans, semisolid buttermilk, skim milk, wheat middlings or fish meal. These supplementary feeds were found to make faster gains, about as follows: Hogs gained 23 per cent. faster on a ration of corn and middlings than on corn; 32 per cent. faster on a ration of corn and tankage; 38.5 per cent. faster on corn and soybeans.

The saving of corn resulting from the use of suitable pasture crops is from 20 to 50 per cent. The following list shows the amount of pork produced per acre in various kinds of forage crops:

| Bluegrass | 324.6 |

Our Prosperity Depends on Farmers.

We cannot build a sound national economic structure unless the foundation is properly laid. That foundation is agriculture. The earth is the source of all wealth; our prosperity depends upon "bumper crops;" farming is the basic principle of every human endeavor.

It was predicted that the entire country would face the bread line this winter. We have just passed through a critical period, but, fortunately, there was a good growing season; and we are not confronted with starvation, because the farmer stuck to his job. In the face of adverse conditions, he has continued to contribute an honest day's work; he has kept his feet on the ground and his head on the level. We must continue to look to him as the world's greatest stabilizing influence.

The farmer's problems, however, are becoming more numerous and more complex each year, and unless they receive more consideration at the hands of lawmakers, financiers, educators, manufacturers, and the American people generally, and are dealt with intelligently, the country is almost certain to confront a food crisis that will imperil the entire social and industrial fabric.

There must be a better understanding between agricultural and other interests. Industry and agriculture must move forward hand in hand. The farmer is dependent on many phases of the manufacturing industry to supply his needs and every one is dependent upon the farmer for food and many raw materials.

Three of the most important problems confronting the farmer are transportation, finance and labor.

Bumper crops are worthless both to the producer and consumer, unless they can be delivered to market in good season and at a reasonable charge. Until transportation facilities are sufficient to meet all demands, agriculture should receive preferential treatment, not only in moving the crops to market, but in supplying the farmers with fertilizer, implements and supplies essential to the successful conduct of their work.

It must be to the farmer's best interests to raise big crops. Yet big crops are usually penalized by greatly reduced prices, prices that spell financial loss to the grower.

Consumer Need Not Pay More.

The consumer need not necessarily pay more in order to provide a profit to the farmer. In most cases the consumer is paying plenty. A remedy must be found in more efficient methods of distribution and in the elimination of excessive profits to the middleman and retailer. In other words, the farmer must receive a larger part of the consumer's dollar.

Agriculture must also receive the financial support proportional to its importance. Heretofore the farmers as a class have never received the financial assistance to which they are entitled, notwithstanding they produce goods whose annual value reaches the stupendous sum of $25,000,000,000.

Each year farming involves the use of more and more capital. High land values, land improvements, drainage developments, better seed, more fertilizer, modern farm machinery—all require money. And, unlike the manufacturer, who find it possible to turn over his investment in materials and labor from one to ten times in a year, the farmer is fortunate if he makes a turn-over once a year. Obviously the farmer must have a correspondingly long credit at fair interest rates. He cannot be expected to survive the gouging of the money sharks, to whom he has had to go in the past to finance his crops.

There is money in every agricultural community. The normal and natural purpose of that money should be to finance the farmer, not as a favor, but as a right. Thus the responsibility of developing a community rests largely in the hands of the rural banker.

The labor aspects of the farmers' difficulties will be discussed in a succeeding article.

HOW TO EXHIBIT EGGS.

Hook That Catches Chicken's Shank—Mating Geese, Avoid Feather Eating.

By H. ARMSTRONG ROBERTS.

Some interesting notes are to be drawn from the reports of the egg-laying contest at Storrs, Conn., which is now in its ninth year. In general the hens lay 87 per cent. of the year's yield by the first of September. From the scores at the time this article is written the average egg yield for the thousand birds in the contest will run 162 eggs or better. Thus, at average market prices, the gross income from the sale of eggs will be approximately $9 per hen.

A number of 200-egg birds were developed at the contest; by far the majority of these topnotchers belong to the Rhode Island Red and Plymouth Rock breeds. White Leghorn breeders will have to hump themselves if they are to hold the reputation of having the premier "egg machines."

Almost all of the agricultural fairs and poultry shows now include entries of eggs. Exhibits of this sort are designed, of course, to encourage and develop a higher grade and a more nearly standardized product. The egg exhibit is a plate of one dozen.

In selecting eggs for show exhibits one must consider size, shape, color, weight, texture of shell, uniformity and freshness. External appearances count most in the total score, though it is the judge's privilege to break one egg in each dozen to determine the degree of freshness.

How the Scoring is Done.

The standard market weight of a dozen eggs is twenty-four ounces, but eggs weighing from twenty-six to twenty-eight ounces have a better chance of winning in the showroom. The following scale of points will be helpful in judging or selecting show eggs: Uniform shape, 15; uniform size, 15; uniform color, 15; weight of eggs, 20; texture of shell, 15; freshness, 15; color of yolk, 5; total, 100 points for a perfect score.

A correspondent wants to know if it would not be beneficial to provide artificial heat in the laying house. A warm house, or at least warm sleeping quarters, is one of the prime requisites for winter egg production; yet artificial heat is not to be recommended. It has been tried very thoroughly, and with unsatisfactory results. Birds so kept quickly lost their vitality and sickness and other troubles develop.

It is enough to build the house substantially, and thus insure it against drafts and dampness, for these are the poultrymen's greatest foes. Fowls are sufficiently feathered to keep them warm, provided they are given dry, draft-proof quarters and the right sort of food.

Egg production is really the result of a secondary circulation, so to speak. In other words, the ordinary wear and tear on the body tissues come first. If there is surplus nourishment left after these demands have been met, it is available for egg production. On the other hand, if all of the fowl's nourishment is consumed in an effort to combat improper living conditions and to keep warm, and there is no surplus left over, there can be nothing to stimulate egg production.

There is a saying that the goose "eats all before it and kills all be-

Get Rid of Low-Productors

Farm poultry and backyard flocks will never declare the dividends which they should, until the flocks are rigidly culled of the "weak sisters"—the once-in-awhile layers. It is claimed that 40 per cent. of the hens in the average farm flock are back-heavy, broken-down, ever-fat, baggy and non-productive and should be sold or eaten.

If fowls eat their own feathers and pluck the feathers of their companions, and cannot be promptly broken of this pernicious habit by giving them more animal food, such as meat scrap or milk, they should be killed for the home table. Habits of this sort are quickly spread through an entire flock with serious results. As a rule if the ringleaders are removed in time, the practice is stopped. But, get the ringleaders in time. Egg-eating is another troublesome habit.

The secret of success in feeding greenstuffs is to feed them in a fresh, succulent state. They are not eaten in large quantities nor relished after they have wilted, dried and toughened. For this reason, clover and alfalfa hay are made more palatable if they are soaked over night or steamed. These processes soften hay and improve the color and flavor.

It is a good plan to mate geese in the fall. They are rather eccentric creatures and often require some time before they become accustomed to strange quarters or strange companionships, and will often worry for weeks over the loss of a mate. The domestic life of geese is very interesting to watch, from which much valuable information can be gained as to the conditions best suited to their welfare.

As a general practice three geese are mated to one another. In the case of very large specimens it is sometimes better to mate two females to one male. During the laying season, when the female develops a dewlap, the sexes are plainly apparent. Otherwise no notable difference exists, and only the experienced breeder can distinguish the genders. The male is usually larger, carries his head somewhat higher, utters a call that seems more masculine, and by numerous mannerisms tries to exhibit his supremacy.

"I Am Having a Terrible Time, I Simply Cannot Sleep"

"PERHAPS it is something you have been eating?"
"No, it is not. I am always careful about what I eat, particularly in the evenings."

"Are you often that way?"
"Yes, two or three nights a week, and I am getting worse all the time."

"Is it your nerves?"
"Yes, I suppose it is, for after any little excitement I am sure to have a sleepless night, and I do not know anything much worse than tossing in bed, unable to sleep."

"Do you have headaches?"
"Yes, often, more especially after a restless night."

"Why don't you try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food? That is what nearly everybody uses for nervous troubles these days."

"I don't know just why, unless because I have a dread of taking any drug that is strong enough to produce sleep."

"But, my dear, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will not produce sleep in that way. It is only after using it for a time and after the restorative influence is felt by the nerves that you will find yourself sleeping well and naturally.

"So many of my girl friends have told me about using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for sleeplessness, headaches, nervousness and such troubles that I have the greatest confidence in it."

"How does it act?"

"It is a restorative, makes the blood rich, feeds the nerves and builds up your system in every way so that the benefits are lasting."

"How long will I have to use it?"
"Oh, I suppose two or three months. It takes time, you know, to get exhausted nerves fully restored. It will not be long, though, before you find yourself sleeping well, enjoying your meals and entirely free from headaches."

"Say, I believe I will try it, for I do suffer most terribly when I cannot sleep, and then I am so tired out next day."

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND, SATURDAY, NOV. 6th, 1920.

A Deliberate Falsehood!

The "Herald" last night featured on its front page one of its "signs of the times" items, this one being as nice a concoction of misrepresentation and lying as could be imagined. It referred to the "Portia" which sailed west this morning, and made out that this ship only took a part load and that was no long procession of carts carrying freight to go by her. The "Herald" should wake up. The S. S. Portia took freight on Wednesday and Thursday, and was filled to her utmost capacity when she sailed to-day. Teams hauling freight were delayed for hours waiting their turn to discharge their goods in the freight sheds, and if the "Herald" only saw a few carts bringing stuff yesterday it was because freight had been stopped. As an actual fact we know of a firm who wanted to ship some flour, but who could not obtain space on the boat.

The items about the "signs of the Times" in the Herald are intended to show that times are bad. Everyone is aware that times are different at this period, but every country under the sun is experiencing the same. Of what use is it to continually beat it in the ears of everyone that times are bad? Are they so bad that we should lie down in despair? The business men of the community are particularly wrathful with the "Herald" for its campaign of "blue ruin," and they resent the "black eye" given the country by such items as that referring to the "Portia," and the item in the "News" this morning which gloats over the fact that men are leaving the country. This is also a tissue of misrepresentation as we showed a few days ago when we gave the totals of the passengers which had left the country and those who had come back. Of course the idea behind all this propaganda is "political," but it is unworthy of the Tory papers, besides being so transparently malicious that it has no effect upon the people in Newfoundland. But the effect upon those countries who do business with us is disastrous, and many a firm's legitimate business has been strangled because of false reports of conditions here which reach firms abroad. Is the whole country to be condemned because of a few failures, or have the big majority of sound, sane, solvent and safe men of the Trade no right to reap the benefit of their industry? Give the country a chance!

THE DOLEFUL TELEGRAM!

According to the 'Telegram' it is all up with us! All there is to do is to call in the Tories and put them in charge of affairs. If the editorial of last night's 'Telegram' is an index of that paper's own feelings, it is to be deplored that it thinks it so necessary to parade its condition before the people. The bone that sticks in the throat of the 'Telegram' is the Fish Regulations. If they were removed, according to that paper, all would be lovely and everybody prosperous. What arrant rot is it the 'Telegram' expects the people to swallow? It has come to this, that if the Regulation prices for fish cannot be obtained, THEREFORE LOWER PRICES WOULD HAVE TO BE ACCEPTED. If the Telegram thinks that the Country would be better off if the price of fish were lower, then it will not get anyone else who is foolish enough to agree with it. The only difficulty facing us to-day is to make a satisfactory agreement with Italy. The exporters had a chance to sell to Italy themselves, but they could not make any headway, and therefore sent Mr. Hayes over to act for them. The couple of fish exporters who are opposed to the Regulations want to say to the fishermen: "We'll give you five or six dollars for your Labrador, because the Italians will not give us any more for it." That is what they mean by free selling. It satisfies them because they get their profit on it, but it will not satisfy the fishermen who have to depend on the sale of their fish to provide enough for them to live on. Mr. Coaker starts from the viewpoint of the fishermen, and says that they must get as high a price as possible. That is just where the matter rests at present, and if the whole Country and especially the mouthpieces of the Tories, co-operated in assisting the Government in its policy, it would be settled very soon. As for bad times, the people have no hesitation in saying that if they feel the reaction due to the end of the war, they have no desire to put the Country in the hands of the Tories, who know no better than to let the whole commercial fabric go to smash, just as happened in 1894 when the Bank Crash brought so many innocent people to the ground and caused untold misery. The people have no desire to go back to the days of 1897 when the Tories sold the Country lock, stock and barrel, the effect of which will be with us for many a day.

The people have no intention of risking the days of 1908 when Labrador fish was down to Two dollars a quintal.

The people have had eight years of Tory Rule, and during this time they were bled white in paying double duties, because the prices of goods went so high that it meant practically the people paid double duties, and the Tory Government of the past ten years did nothing but sit back and spend the money that flowed in from the people, in that fancied prosperity that came to us because a war was on.

The war is over now, and the readjustment period is on us. The Tories, now happily in Opposition, blame the Liberal Government as if it were responsible for the world-wide conditions to-day. But are the people experiencing such times as in the Tory Times referred to, when molasses and cornmeal had to be doled out? Are the people passing through such times as during those Tory Times when men were put in prison for having a barrel of flour in their homes? Not by any means. The very papers that cry "Woe, woe!" carry large advertisements asking for men to go to work. Let us get some sanity in our comments upon the condition of our country. Lift the country up, don't trample it under foot. "This country and its people are solvent to-day," let that be the slogan, and let us be glad to say it, and not take delight in informing the world falsely that the country is on the rocks.

A St. John's Public Market

Reference has been made and suggestions put forward on divers occasions concerning a public market for St. John's. Although this very important question has not been considered in very recent years, yet the need for a public market in St. John's at the present time is infinitely greater than it has ever been before. Time was, and that not long since, when its need was so acutely felt that some of our prospective candidates seeking election, made it one of their particular planks in a political platform. Since its last serious mention, other more important and beneficial questions have arisen and been dealt with. During the period of the late European war such a question as a public market could not hope to receive its merited consideration. But now such vital questions have been more or less settled, and the majority of obstacles have either been surmounted or eliminated, this very momentous and profitable question would well repay consideration. The advantages of a public market here would be threefold; viz.—(1) The encouragement of home industries, especially competition in farming. (2) A considerable convenience to the public—supplier and consumer. (3) Somewhat lower prices compensated by smaller surplus stocks.

Now to emphasise on these advantages, I shall deal with them separately, in so far as my experiences of European public markets allow, and enumerate them more fully.

1. The encouragement of home industry, particularly products of our local farms. While on the one hand some of our population are very pessimistic as regards farming in this country, and fail to see how farming may be encouraged and carried on to any advantage, there are others. I may say the vast majority indeed, who are very hopeful, and foresee considerably bright prospects in the farming industry. Granted that certain parts of this country are utterly void of vegetation and lack fertility, yet other portions are extremely rich. Great tracts of Newfoundland territory are virgin soils, possessing all the necessary ingredients to successful farming. I have travelled Newfoundland considerably and know the country comparatively well, and have been very forcibly struck by the large tracts of fertile soil where sods have never been trimmed. Why is this? The principal reason is the lack of encouragement given our own population, and discouragement offered to would-be immigrating farmers from other countries, principally from the British Isles. I consider that one of the greatest modes of encouragement in this country to farmers and would-be farmers is a public market in St. John's. Some may say that a public market here would not serve more than a handful of farmers in and around St. John's. Now that idea is very erroneous. The same plea was offered in regard to our coal deposits around the lakes in the interior, but tenacity and will-power have not only made it a minor detail but has practically eliminated the obstacle. With a Railway Commission, such as we have at present, constituted permanently; applications legitimately and reasonably made to extend railway lines along agriculture valleys would undoubtedly receive the most favourable consideration. The extending of railways for the convenience of farmers around the fertile and agriculture parts of the country would enable them to send their products of toil to the public market once or twice per week. This would not only be an encouragement to farm, but would also mean considerable competition, and as competition is the heart of trade, success must necessarily be the natural outcome of such a venture.

2. The convenience to the public.—The above-mentioned details will serve as part answer to this particular portion of my article. Furthermore the anxiety of householders as to whether a hawking supplier of vegetables will make his usual call to-day would be entirely dispensed with. Wednesdays and Saturdays are the days when house-keepers generally buy the week's supply, principally the latter. With a public market in the town it would be only a small portion of the household routine to call there and make the necessary weekly purchases. There would be a considerable saving of time and worry by having a market. Instead of going from store to store, accosting hawker after hawker as he proceeds along the street, in an endeavour to obtain that which is required, householders could go to market, make their purchases at the different stalls, and all in the morning or afternoon shopping. The question of having a particular supplier, or being a customer of a particular farmer, need not be dispensed with, because all farmers of any standing would have their respective stalls.

3. Lower prices compensated by small surplus stocks.—Prices must necessarily be lower because of the undoubted competition in a public market. This would be an advantage to all, an advantage to the consumer as well as being profitable to the producer. Prices would be more uniform than at present. This year some of our local farmers are selling potatoes and turnips at $5.00 and $4.00 per barrel respectively, while others are only able to obtain $3.50 and $3.00. Now one of the obvious advantages of a public market would be the avoidance of this state of affairs, and a uniform price for products of the same quality. This would give all farmers an equal reward for labours. Now by following those details another difficulty can be wiped out, which brings me to the question of lower prices being compensated by less surplus stocks left on the hands of farmers. This surplus stock is not in reality surplus, in the true sense of the word. "Surplus" would mean that which is unnecessary at the time, or in other words the production is greater than the consumption, or the supply greater than the demand. But such a meaning is not quite appropriate here in speaking of our local farm produce. The difficulty farmers experience here in Newfoundland is the under-estimation of consumption at times and the over-estimation at other times. In order to express myself more clearly to my readers I will endeavour to enumerate the above statement. In and around St. John's farmers bring their produce around to their customers, usually weekly, sometimes daily. They have absolutely no possible means of calculating what their respective customers require from day to day or week to week. If they bring a large load to town it is merely a gamble as to whether they will be sufficiently fortunate

Use Hook for Catching Fowls

Night is the best time to catch fowls. One can lift them off the perches without much trouble. Sometimes, however, they have to be caught in the day time, which becomes quite a task if the flock has a large house or yard. Running madly after the birds is a poor practice; it is hard on the runner and may cause the birds to be injured. It is sure to frighten them.

A catching hook should be provided for these emergencies. It consists of a light wooden handle about four feet long, to which is added a length of stout wire projecting one or two feet from the end of the handle. The free end of the wire is bent in the shape of a tapered hook, the aim of which is to pluck the fowl's shank.

With a little practice a great deal of dexterity can be gained in the use of this hook. The operator walks quickly among the fowls, holding the hook against his body, and when he sees the object of his quest in a favorable position a quick movement of the hook is made, slightly ahead of the bird's shanks, then pulled back at the right instant, and the bird is caught.

Use hard wire for the hook, wire that will hold its shape. Soft wire bends too easily. And see that there are no sharp places in the hook that might injure the fowl's shank.

A circular net on the end of a long handle, after the fashion of a crab net, is also used for catching chicken, but the objection to this device is that it frightens the flock off before the net can be brought into play.

Remove Dust Before Whitewashing
To whitewash a poultry house with out first removing the dust is to lose most of the effectiveness of the wash. Either the wash will form a coating over the dust and subsequently flake off, or as it is applied it will run from the dust as though spread on an oiled surface.

The dust which lodges on every projection in the hen house is of the most powdery sort, and because of this quality it resists moisture, just as flour will resist water. Remove the dust with a stiff brush, along with the cobwebs and scales from previous washes. The place for the white-wash is next to the timber in the house.

Doctor: "Well?" "How splendid!"
Miss Moss: "Do I drop it in my eyes before or after meals?" "Yes, lightning seldom strikes in the same place twice."

to dispose of it; in quite a number of cases they cannot, they are therefore compelled either to take it back to the country with them or dispose of it at a considerable loss, to those who have already purchased sufficient. Then judging the demand by their past experience, they often find that the following week they bring inadequate quantities to supply their customers. Now from a consumer's point of view some days they can obtain ample quantities, while other days they have to travel around town without getting their orders filled, while certain farmers are compelled to travel back over the long hard road from whence they come, without disposing of half their loads.

Now a public market would insure the consumer of ample quantities at reasonable prices, give the producer a fair chance of estimating the demand from week to week, and guarantee more certainty of reward, for hard, honest industrial toil.

IRRITANT STRIKES

Melbourne Argus: Several welcome evidences have been afforded recently that the moderate and reasonable men in the Labor organization are becoming filled with a spirit of dissatisfaction against the extremists who have gained possession of the labor "machine." The latest proof of the grotesque lengths to which the extremists are prepared to go was given in the elaborate scheme of "irritation strikes" formulated, no doubt, by some few utter irreconcilables, and adopted by the executive of the New South Wales Labor Council, "to prevent the former deportations of aliens and other from the Commonwealth."

WHY LABOR SHOULD SUPPORT LEAGUE

Samuel Gompers Declares it is a Document For Humanity.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 — The reasons why in his opinion organized labor should support the League of Nations are set forth by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a telegram he has just dispatched to William Michaels, of Tulsa, Okla.

Gompers lays particular stress on the provisions of the labor section of the league covenant declaring:

"It is a document for humanity. The nine points are well fitted to guide the policy of the League of Nations and if adopted will confer lasting benefit upon the wage-earners of the world. Standards of advanced countries are given this absolute protection against any possible concerted action to lower them on the part of the less advanced nations."

An official statement just issued by the National Non-Partisan Political campaign committee of the American Federation of Labor also endorses the league, saying that "it offers the best hope for the expression and fulfillment of liberal ideals throughout the world."

AMOROUS SAILOR GETS IN THE TOILS

Last night a seaman from one of the foreign vessels in port, and who was evidently under the influence of liquor, became very disorderly in Water Street, and made it his hobby to offer his company to any woman that passed within "hailing" distance. A report was made to the police that such a character was at large and Sergt. Fitzgerald and Constable Case set out to locate him. It was not long before they came up with one they wanted who was about to show his admiration for a very charming widow. The seaman was placed under arrest forthwith and proved a most complaisant prisoner, not offering the slightest objection to the officers' action. However, he will be asked for a full explanation in the Magistrate's Court this morning.

A PROTEST

(To the Editor)

Dear Sir,—I cannot any longer refrain from uttering a protest at the destruction of the paving of Duckworth Street now being wrought by the Telephone Company.

Like all other citizens of St. John's I rejoice at the prospect of a satisfactory telephone service, and appreciate the fact that the up-to-date method is to bury the wires, but these trenches should be confined to the drain at the side of the road. At present the Company is gradually working the line out into the centre of the street, and we know what that will mean every time that any repairs have to be effected, besides the immediate injury to the solid foundation of the road bed.

At the same time, I desire to point out to the Commissioners, that they seem to have quite lost sight of the fact that Duckworth Street is paved. As a paved street, the regular application of the sweeper and a hose, would relieve us of the filth at present accumulating in front of our doors. Last winter's filth was allowed to dry into dust, and blow into our houses, when the dry weather came on, whereas it could all have been swept up or washed away if regularly attended to. This is what the residents of Duckworth Street expected when they so readily helped pay for the paving of the street. That the paving was badly done and is now wearing away on the surface, does not interfere with the cleansing of the street.

Yours truly,

N. S. FRASER.

KLARK-URBAN CO.

Score in "My Lady's Garter."

The Klark-Urban Company delighted their host of admirers last evening in their presentation of "My Lady's Garter." Mr. Harden Klark was up to his usual good form and gave a impersonation of an English secret service agent under cover. Miss Maisie Cecil sustained her high reputation in the role of Miss Hamilton whose jewels mysteriously disappear and are traced to the "Hawk" a notorious American crook, who also is responsible for the disappearance of the famous garter which is the property of the British Museum. Other members of the Company who figure prominently are Mr. Thomas Brower, as the American secret service agent and Mr. N. S. Scoville who as a Scotland Yard man acted the part and delivered the "Cockney" accent to perfection. Mr. W. E. Fox as the bomb thrower acted the character to the last word. The remainder of the Company were particularly well cast. To any who have not seen this play we would advise them to take it in to-night when it will be repeated. The opening bill next week will be "The Man From Home."

POLICE COURT

A Flemish sailor who tried to run-a-muck on Water St. yesterday afternoon was fined $25.00 or 30 days; his only excuse was that he was drunk. He knocked down Mr. Cantwell of the Cape near the Royal Bank of Canada. Constables Case and Crocker who were on leave saw the incident, they followed the man east to the Court House where they reported to Sergt. Fitzgerald. He then picked up the Gay Boy and landed him in a cell at the Police Station. But for the fact that he was drunk His Honor said he would give him six months without the option of a fine.

Two men from Tor's Cove, drunk were released on payment of costs.

OBITUARY

J. CLARENCE MACDONALD

It is with sincere regret we record to-day the death of John Clarence MacDonald, M.D., which occurred at his residence Duckworth St. at 5.30 p.m. yesterday after a protracted illness. Doctor MacDonald had been ailing for almost three years from internal trouble. In September 1919 he went to New York for special treatment and an operation followed, which for a time appeared to be successful. On return here he was able to resume practice and for several months his health seemed to improve. Few of his friends knew how ill he really was, during the last year as he had always the hopeful word and occasionally was able to get around and visit the clubs, as well as most of his patients. He was engaged all this time in a fierce fight with an insidious disease but he kept up manfully the struggle until a few minutes before the end came. Doctor MacDonald was born in Port Hawkesbury, N.S., December 7th, 1876, and was a son of the late Dr. Patrick MacDonald of that place. He graduated at the McGill University Medical College in 1902 and came to Newfoundland the same year. He first took up practice at Old Perlican, Bay de Verde where he remained for seven years. He then practiced at Bonavista, then at Placentia, and came to St. John's about five years ago. In 1916 he was appointed medical adviser to the T. A. & B. Society, which position he held up to the time of his death. He was a man of rare talent and the names of the MacDonalds in the McGill Medical College are conspicuously displayed. His father, well known over the whole of Nova Scotia, was a graduate, his elder brother, Doctor (Major) Thomas MacDonald, who went down with the British Hospital Ship Andover Castle when she was torpedoed by the Hun, was a graduate and Dr. Henry, a surviving brother, practicing in Halifax, also took his degree from the same institution. Deceased married Miss Nellie Moore, daughter of Mr. Thomas Moore, of Bay de Verde, who with four young children survive him. Also mourning are his aged mother in Pt. Harboursbury, one sister and Dr. Henry in Halifax.

Dr. MacDonald was a fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus, a charter member of St. John's Lodge No. 1 Elks, a member of the Benevolent Irish Society a member of the St. John's T. A. & B. Society and several other institutions. Outside his profession Dr. MacDonald was a general social favorite. He was a musician of exceptional merit, a man filled with much human kindness who gave freely, not alone his medical services, but unostentatiously of his limited way to help any person who stood in need. It goes without further comment that such calls must have been frequent in the practice of a medical man. To the sorrowing wife and the old and near relatives the "Evening Advocate" extends its sincere sympathy. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2.30 p.m. from his late residence 344 Duckworth St. Requiescat in Pace.

WHO OWNS THE BEEF?

Police Make Capture of Three Barrels of Family Plate.

Just before last midnight Constable Pitcher, who is a rather keen observer, noticed a horse and van come up from Powning's Cove and further observed that some heavy looking packages were in the vehicle. The officer who was dressed in mufti followed at a close distance behind the vehicle which was drawn up Waldegrave St. across George St. up Voy's Lane and then to a cul de sac running east to the rear of the houses built on Queen Street. The horses were reined up here, and the packages, three in number, unloaded. Pitcher waited until the two carmen had unloaded their cargo and then held them up for enquiry. The truckmen explained that they had been engaged to haul three packages from Browning's premises to a place of delivery and that they had faithfully accomplished their part of the agreement. They failed, however, to give the names of the parties to the agreement in the first part. The constable took the names of the teamsters and allowed them to go, they promising to appear in Court called upon. The officer then reported the matter to his superiors and an order was issued to bring the packages to the police station and in due time were trucked there. To all appearance they look as three full barrels of family plate beef, the contents being outlined on the heads of the barrels. They have not been opened and whether the packages contain this very necessary commodity or not—or the much sought after liquid—remains to be seen.

S. S. "WESTERN COMET" A REAL RESCUE SHIP

The S. S. Western Comet, which picked up the abandoned schooner Nordica and towed her to Boston, has figured in several important rescues at sea. The Comet was the ship that, when the large American troopship Powhattan was disabled last year, responded to her S. O. S. and was the first to her assistance. The Powhattan was making bad weather when the rescue ship hove in sight, and it was impossible to attempt a rescue, so the Comet stood by until the sea moderated, when she made several attempts to tow the troopship but the hawsers were not staunch enough to withstand the strain and she was forced to wait until other rescue ships arrived, when, with their assistance the disabled ship, which had been knocked about on the ocean for over a week, was safely brought to Halifax.

Wheat Men Want No
Less Than $3That Is Dictum of U. S. Western Farmers.

WICHITA, Kansas, Oct. 26.—With 96,000,000 bushels of wheat in the bins and stacks of Kansas farmers, representing two-thirds of the year's crops, with empty box cars on nearly every railroad siding in the state, and with the country's elevators ready to purchase wheat, there were just 18 carloads of Kansas wheat on the Wichita market to-day.

The wheat growers' strike is on. The strike was ordered three weeks ago, when the officials of the National Wheat Growers' association, with headquarters in Wichita, issued a proclamation to 70,000 members not to sell any wheat after 8 o'clock, Oct. 25, until the price at their nearest terminal market reached $3 a bushel.

Many farmers stopped selling wheat at once, and the decline in receipts has been gradual since that time. One year ago to-day, with more than half the year's crop marketed, the receipts on this market were 26 cars.

W. H. McGreevy, secretary of the Wheat Growers' association, says he is not at all surprised at the manner in which the wheat growers have responded to the proclamation.

"The members of the association are going to refuse to sell their wheat until they can obtain for it what it cost to raise it," he said. "That is all we are asking, and that is what we expect to get. There may be an occasional exception to the rule, some man who must have a little ready money to meet immediate needs or to pay his banker who is pressing him for a settlement, but that is all."

"I believe, however, that the bankers, and the millers, as a rule, will back the growers, for our interests are identical."

Shipments Dwindle.

TOPEKA, Kas., Oct. 26.—Farmers' organizations throughout Kansas generally have adopted resolutions favoring holding back their wheat until they can get a "fair price" for it. This week's official crop report by the state board of agriculture mentioned that wheat shipments were slow. Farmers' organizations have set from $2.70 to $3 as a "fair price." Grain dealers say the volume of wheat now moving to market is less than a fourth the amount nominally shipped at this time of year. However, car shortage is officially reported, and it also has been instrumental in preventing shipments.

Iowa Farmers' Called.
DES MOINES, Iowa, Oct. 26.—Iowa farm bureau officials, in an authorize statement to-day, called upon Iowa farmers to hold their farm products and refuse to buy other than the bare necessities of life.

The statement flays the packers, grain speculators and the free tariff on Canadian wheat, and says financial ruin impends.

The bureau's figures support the conditions set forth in the statement.

Market Reacts.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Wheat prices made a sudden ascent to-day, and trade authorities ascribed as one of the reasons a falling-off in offerings from the southwest, apparently due to the "farmers' strike." An extreme advance of 10 3-4 cents a bushel took place. December delivery touched $2.10 1-4 as against $1.99 1-2 to $1.99 3-4 at yesterday's finish.

The exceptional strength which developed in the market to-day was encouraged to a considerable extent also by the fact that export buying on a large scale was noted.

It was estimated that exporters had purchased to-day 1,250,000 bushels of United States wheat, and that Great Britain and France were buying in India, where, of late, famine has been reported.

The amount of new capital solicited for business enterprises in Great Britain during the first month of the current year has reached £294,509,849 or more than £50,000,000 in excess of the entire new capital issues for the year 1913 which established the previous high record.

Statistics obtained by the English Information Service of the Bankers' Trust Company of New York, give the totals as follows.

BRITISH NEW CAPITAL ISSUES
1913 (12 mos.)—£242,139,009
1919 (12 mos.)—£237,541,263
1920 (8 mos.)—£294,509,849.

In the 12 months ending August 31, 1920, the British public has been asked to subscribe £408,667,468 for the financing of British enterprises. Due allowance for the decreased purchasing power of the British pound must enter when comparison is made with the pre-war amount of new capital issues.

FOR CONVERSING WITH THE DEADExplanation of Edison's Latest Invention.No Personality After Death, He Believes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Thomas A. Edison, inventor and scientist, does not believe that the human personality exists after the death. He reasoned the problem out and came to this conclusion in the presence of an interviewer, Austin C. Leacarbun, editor of the Scientific American.

Yet, after he had wound up his argument he added, with a smile, that he still was working on his apparatus for communicating with the dead.

"I do hope that our own personality survives," said Mr. Edison. "If it does, then my apparatus ought to be of some use. That is why I am now at work at the most sensitive apparatus I have ever undertaken to build, and I await the results with keenest interest."

Mr. Edison would not describe the apparatus, but he compared it to a valve which, turned by the comparatively puny human hand wielding one-eight horse-power, releases the energies of a mammoth turbine with 50,000 horsepower.

The apparatus will be some unusually delicate instrument, capable of magnifying the most minute pressure thousands of times.

"The slightest effort which it intercepts will be magnified many times so as to give us whatever form of record we desire for further investigation," explained Mr. Edison.

"But if this apparatus fails to reveal anything of exceptional interest I am afraid that I shall have lost all faith in the survival of personality as we know it in this existence."

Denounces Table Telling.

The eminent inventor made light of the ouija board and table-talking methods of communication with the beyond, and asserted that "if there was any foundation for the belief that a life beyond existed, the methods for communication ought to be placed on a scientific basis. He said:

"Why should personalities in another sphere waste their time working a triangular piece of wood over a board with certain lettering on it? Why should such personalities play pranks with a table? The whole business seems so childish to me that I frankly cannot give it my serious consideration. If we are to make any real progress in the field of psychic investigation, we must do it with scientific apparatus in a scientific manner."

Mr. Edison discussed the problem of life and death slowly, reasoning out every step leading toward the depressing conclusion with great care, turning frequently to the interviewer for corroboration.

He said he had discarded a long time ago the accepted theories of life and death for those which his sixty active years of scientific experimentation led him to adopt.

Where The Secret Lodges.

These theories urged him to the belief that the human body, just as every other organic existence, was composed of entities, so small that they defied the most powerful magnifying glass. In the human body 75 per cent. of the entities did the routine labor, while the remaining five per cent. directed the labors of the others.

It is in this five per cent. that the secret of personality lodges, according to Mr. Edison. And they are all concentrated in that portion of the brain known as the field of Broca. "The whole question to my way

WISE MEN SAY—

That the way to carry a stiff load is to have a stiff upper lip.

That there are no means of escape from the cells of a guilty conscience.

That initiative consists in doing the right thing without being told to.

That a sour disposition doesn't make for either good digestion or success.

That the man worth while is the man who can smile when everything goes wrong.

That personality is a big factor in business success—but personality is not made by tailors and barbers.

Of thinking," declared the inventor,

"is what happens to the master entities—located in the field of Broca.

Now, it is reasonable to suppose that the directing entities are located in that portion of our body. These entities, as a closely knit ensemble, give us our mental impressions and our personality."

MUSTARD-POT POEMS

Mustard belongs to the same order of plants as the cabbage, and is a near relative of the wallflower and ten-week stock.

The Anglo-Saxons mixed mustard seeds with honey to give a piquancy to their sweet puddings, and it was used as far back as the time of Hippocrates for medicinal purposes.

Arab physicians discovered the distillation of alcohol from the lees of wine through experiments with mustard.

Mustard in its present familiar form was first made by Mrs. Clements, of Durham, who separated the black husks from the seeds before grinding them. "Durham" mustard was popularized by George I., who liked its color and flavor.

In addition to its uses as a condiment at table and in medicine, mustard is largely grown to feed sheep.

Owing to the rapidity of its germination it is valuable as a green manure, being ploughed into the land when a few weeks old.

Owing to the scarcity of natural and chemical manures, Germany's corn lands have been manured with mustard since the war.

There are two references to mustard in the New Testament.

Directly and indirectly, 125,000 people are employed in Great Britain in growing, manufacturing and selling mustard.

An elderly examiner was putting a young medical student through his paces.

"Supposing," he began, "there was a gunpowder explosion and a man was blown into the air. You as the nearest doctor, being called in, what would you do?"

"Wait for him to come down again," was the prompt reply.

WORLD OVER

Malaria and Yellow Fever have been practically eliminated as primary causes of death among the non-native officials in West Africa. Last year there were no deaths from malaria among the community concerned, the only one—in the Gold Coast—from yellow fever. There were eight victims from blackwater fever during 1919. The total deathrate among the non-native officials was 12.5 per thousand, compared with 16.5 per thousand in the previous year; while the invaliding rate fell to 27.5 per thousand from 29.5 per thousand.

"We weren't exactly quarrelling, but she tore a lot of my back hair out," a woman told the Willemsen magistrate.

SUMMARY OF WORLD NEWS

(November 5th.)

At a meeting of miners delegates held in London this afternoon result of ballot on terms agreed upon between miners executive and Government was announced. Returns showed majority of 8459 votes against acceptance of terms. Smillie who presided pointed out that by the rules of federation two thirds majority was necessary for continuance of strike. After long discussion following resolution was carried. "That in view of result of ballot and acceptance of above rule the strike be declared off and men be advised to resume work on Thursday or as soon as possible." Subsequently full figures of ballot are stated to be 338,049 against agreement therefore represents only above one and quarter per cent of total of votes cast. First ballot on question of drinking held in United Kingdom as so far resulted in majority for "No change." In Glasgow only four electoral districts voted for prohibition and nine voted for reduction of license while two voted for no change. All eleven districts of Aberdeen voted no change. 10 voted prohibition and one voted reduction of license. Earl Curzon last night dispatched note to Moscow in reply to number of communications handed to British Government by Krassin few days ago. It is understood note refers again to anti-British propaganda and active hostilities manifested by Soviet Government in east and on these matters maintains precisely same stand as was spoken in previous British note of Oct. 9th. Other incontrovertible evidence proves that Soviet maritime activities in Black Sea were deliberately to interfere with interest of Entente. While this is pursued by Soviet Government present British Naval activity in Black Sea will be maintained. It has been decided that stone placed on the grave of soldiers to be buried in Westminster Abbey on Armistice Day shall bear inscription "A British warrior who fell in great war 1914-18 for King and Country." General Lord Rawlinson who is on his way to take up command in India paid brief visit to Amiens yesterday in order to present to Cathedral on behalf of British Government Union Jack in memory of part taken by British army in fighting on Somme which resulted in great German defeat of 1918. Rawlinson was received at Cathedral by Bishop of Amiens and his clergy who led procession through packed Cathedral to high altar where ceremony was short but display impressive. In his address Bishop gave historical resume of associations of royal families of France and England with Cathedral and detailed thrilling narrative of military operations on Somme. He recalled with emotion Rawlinson's part in great struggle. "Amiens will never forget British Army its head the great figure of His Majesty King George and its victorious Generals." At close of ceremony "De profundis" was chanted for British soldiers and men of British blood from Australia and New Zealand who made supreme sacrifice. In connection with world wide movement to raise funds with view to assisting French Government in gigantic task to raise Rheims Cathedral so that it may become monument to all who have fallen for liberty in great war, meeting was held at Windsor to-day under Presidency of Lord Mayor, Archbishop of Canterbury and Cathedral Bourne, Roman Catholic Archbishop, of West Minister were amongst speakers who appealed on behalf of British Empire Fund which has been instituted for this object. Negotiations between Lord Milners Commission and Egyptian Nationalists delegates will be resumed this week in London. Mohammed Pasha, Marmud, and other Nationalist provisional agreements reached in London in August last between Nationalist leaders and Milners commission. They have returned with Nationalist assent subject to modifications. If agreement not reached Nationalist delegates will return to Egypt and Egyptian Government will appoint two or three representatives who will come to London and sign treaty on these lines between two Governments.

Of which all persons concerned are hereby required to take due notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

Given under my Hand and Seal at the Government House, St. John's, this 19th day of October, A.D. 1920.

FRED M. STIRLING,
For Deputy Colonial Secretary.

N.B.—The public are asked to note that in the Peninsula of Avalon and other areas defined in the first part of the above Proclamation, the hunting, killing, etc., of Beavers is absolutely prohibited; while, in all other portions of the Colony, Beavers may be hunted, killed, etc., but only under License issued under "The Beaver Act, 1920." The Open Season, in which Beavers may be hunted, killed, etc., under License, extends from March 1st to March 15th.

Published by Authority.

His Excellency the Governor-in-Council has been pleased to make and publish the following Regulations under the provisions of "The Beaver Act, 1920."

FRED M. STIRLING,
For Deputy Colonial Secretary.
Dept. of the Colonial Secretary,
October 19th, 1920.

(1) No person shall hunt, kill, trap, pursue, or take Beavers in any area in which hunting, killing, trapping, pursuing, or taking is lawful without first having obtained a License from the Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

(2) Licenses shall be issued only to bona fide trappers who have been residents of the Colony for at least three years before application for a License, and who have trapped in one section of the Colony for the same period.

(3) Every application for a Beaver License shall be in writing, and shall have endorsed, or attached to it, a Certificate from a Stipendiary Magistrate that the applicant is a bona fide trapper. It shall contain a statement that the applicant desires a License to take a certain number of Beavers, (not more than 25), from a section of the Colony described in the application. It shall be accompanied by an Affidavit made before a Stipendiary Magistrate, or Justice of the Peace, setting forth the applicant's place of residence in the Colony for the three years immediately preceding application, and the boundaries of that section of the Colony in which the applicant has operated for trapping purposes.

(4) Every License-Holder shall deliver his License to the nearest Stipendiary Magistrate upon expiration thereof, together with all unused Tags. He shall also deliver up to the said Stipendiary Magistrate the skins of all Beavers killed by him during the term of his license. Every such skin shall have a tag attached thereto, as provided in Section 5 hereof. He shall also make a sworn statement showing the number of Beavers killed or taken by him during the season, that the skins delivered are of Beavers killed under his License, and that he has complied with all the provisions of the Beaver Acts, and the Regulations made thereunder. The Magistrate who receives said License, skins, tags and statement shall immediately forward the same to the Department of Marine and Fisheries.

(5) Each License shall have attached thereto twenty-five Tags numbered consecutively, which Tags shall have printed thereon the number of the License, the name and address of the Licensee, and the section of the country covered by the License. The Licensee shall as soon as possible after any Beaver is killed, attach securely to the skin of such Beaver one of the Tags furnished with his License, and shall keep the Tag so secured until the skin is delivered in accordance with the provisions of Regulation 4 hereof.

(6) Not more than 25 Beavers shall be killed or taken by any License Holder.

(7) No Licensee shall destroy or damage any Beaver House or Dams.

On the recommendation of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, and under the provisions of "The Beaver Act, 1920," His Excellency the Governor in Council has been pleased to approve the following amendment to the Rules and Regulations respecting the killing of Beavers, of date October 19th instant, namely:

Section 8 (Close Season) to be cancelled and the following substituted therefor:

Close Season

How Canada Helps the Farmer to Market His Wheat

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—After the private meeting of financiers with Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, yesterday afternoon, the following statement was made for public information:

"We have had a nice, frank talk on the general financial situation. At the meeting were represented bankers, bond brokers, stock brokers, life insurance companies, mortgage and trust companies, and the whole financial situation was fully gone into. It was determined that, in view of the absolute national necessity that the wheat crop be properly financed and the necessity of keeping in Canada the money necessary to carry on essential Canadian business, the present embargo on the purchase of securities held overseas be continued. The discussion was long and open to all. On becoming fully aware of the national necessities, the different dealers determined to forego the profits that the purchase of these outside securities would yield.

"We have to see that the farmers are able to market their wheat," Sir Henry added. "No man with the interests of the country at heart would want to imperil the marketing of this crop, and you know the amount of inflation that exists in this and every country, so why add to that inflation?"

When one of the prominent financiers present made the statement that originally he had not believed in the embargo and thought that the financial position of Canada would have been better without it, there were demonstrations of approval. He followed this by saying that, if the Minister of Finance made the request that the restrictions should continue he would be bound to listen to that request, but he asked that some assurance be given that other imports in the way of luxuries should also be excluded.

A suggestion by a banker that a date in February be fixed for the revoking of the embargo brought a response from the Minister that he hoped it would be discontinued before that. As to Victory bonds remaining in the hands of the market committee, little was said during the meeting, but the Minister observed that he would like to continue the present arrangement for a little while longer.

E. Gordon Wills, president of the Toronto Exchange, was in the chair, and there was an excellent representation of the financial community of the classes above mentioned.

Proud To Have Such A Man As Coaker!

Coney Arm Wants A Bridge

(To the Editor) Dear Sir,—Kindly permit me to say a word or two in your most esteemed paper, The Advocate. All that one hears now is the hard times (not Tory times), and no doubt about it but it is hard times alright, and nearly every one knows what makes it so hard, the high prices. The people wonder what makes it so, because they say when the war was one the cry was then: 'when the war is over there will be better times than ever there was, for the prices would be far below the prices ruling prior to the war, but what do we find. The war is over (and none too soon) and instead of prices lower than before the war, we find prices higher than before the war. Some will say what is the cause of it being so, other, except by boat, and there are and why things can't be lower in price, they fail to see the whole cause of it all. But I have it here in a nutshell, and here it is. The cause of the high cost of living is nothing but pride and conceit, you only have to look out of your window to see that, for all that one sees nowadays is white silk stockings, silk dresses, serge suits, tan boots, white shoes, pearls and jewels, which is nothing but amour propre. I am a great believer in Hon. Mr. Coaker and his work, and all fishermen, and all laboring men, and in fact all Newfoundlanders, should be proud to have such a man as Hon. Mr. Coaker in the Government of the country, especially in the Department of Marine and Fisheries. The only fault is, we haven't enough Coakers in the country. Some are having a lot to say about the price of fish under the Regulations, but the question is what would it be if the Tory Government was in power to-day? Would we get $10.00 and $11.00 for fish? No! I say you fishermen can thank Hon. W. F. Coaker for the price you are getting to-day for your fish. There is one thing we know to-day that is the price paid for fish in the market, what our grandfathers never had the chance to know, why? Because there was no Hon. Mr. Coaker in his day to help the grandfathers in a good many things to-day that we owe Hon. W. F. Coaker for, and long may he live and prosper in his grand and noble work. Just one more word, sir, kindly. I want to say, and I hope it is not too late, that we want a bridge here at Coney Arm very badly. We cannot do without it, and there is no way to cross the brook now at all, and we can't get from one side of the harbor to the other, except by boat, and there are times (and a good many) when we can't get in boat no matter how badly one wants to cross. Have we got to put a bridge here with the money out of our own pockets, or will the Government put one there out of the money we have turned into the revenue? 'Tis high time now for something to be done, we are not asking for a sum of money to build one like the Quebec bridge, for a much smaller one will do us, and I hope that Mr. J. H. Scammell, our member, will see to it that we will have the convenience of a bridge here this fall. He is the man we are trusting, we have done our best for him, and put him where he is, and that is what we put him there for, to look to our welfare on the floors of the House of Assembly, and now we are expecting him to do his part for us while he has the chance. Thinking you, Mr. Editor, for so much space. I am yours sincerely, PRO BONO PUBLICO. Coney Arm, White Bay, Sept. 21st, 1920. W

WRINKLES AND RECEIPTS

Too much fat in the daily menu spoils the complexion.

To make good tea never use water that has boiled a long time.

To make sour fruit less sour cook it in containing a pinch of soda.

Discoloured marble washstands should be scoured with wet salt, and, if still stained, with salt and lemon-juice mixed.

When making jam, if the fruit is allowed to boil for ten minutes before the sugar is added, only about half the quantity of sugar will be required.

Egg stains may be removed from spoons by taking common salt between the thumb and finger and briskly rubbing the stain, which will soon disappear.

When cleaning the stove make a pad of old cloth and rub soot from the back of the grate or flues on all the greasy parts before applying blacklead.

Plain salt, and water—a teaspoonful of salt to a pint of warm water—makes a splendid gargle for strengthening the throat and minimizing the risk of catching cold.

To remove ink-stains from linen table-cloths handkerchiefs, ect., rub the stain immediately with a ripe tomato cut in half, then wash in the usual way. Ink-stains on the fingers can be removed by rubbing well with the inside of a banana skin.

Before using new crockery it is a good plan to boil it, and so render it brittle. Take a large fish-kettle or preserving-pan, fill it with cold water and place it over the fire. Lay the china carefully in the bottom and see that the water covers it. Allow it to come slowly to boiling point, and then lift the pan from the fire. The china must be left in the pan and the water allowed to get cold before it is removed.

bridesmaids, however, no one seems to have thought of increasing the realism by bowling a maiden over.

General Booth!

General Bramwell Booth is coming to Canada within a few weeks to meet the officers of the Salvation Army in order that he may establish a feeling of closer personal co-operation between each member of the army and its executive head. Many meetings of the eastern district of the Salvation Army, which extends from Fort William to St. John's, Newfoundland, will be held in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa—and at which General Booth will speak, but his main purpose is to get in touch with the officers of the army.

And that has been his chief purpose during the many months that are past when General Booth visited Australia, New Zealand, India, and the Islands of the antipodes. In Australia he addressed fifty meetings and was accorded many receptions, but his delight was the quiet talks he could have with the field officers of the army. General Booth passed swiftly through Canada last July and then announced his return to the Dominion in October to gain a closer knowledge of the work of the Salvationists.

General Bramwell Booth does not wish to be only the head of the Salvation army in England, or in English-speaking countries, but he hopes to make the whole world the parish of the army and next year, it is his intention to undertake a journey to China and Japan.

The inspiration that the visit of such a man as General Booth has been to each officer of the army, and will be to the officers of the army in Canada is incalculable, but he has in a few months accomplished several very concrete results. In Ceylon were found starving people, and with the financial aid of the government, a farm was purchased, labor brought from India, and much done to relieve the situation. He hopes to establish missions of the army in China, Japan, Java, the Dutch Indies and South Africa, and several hundred officers have placed themselves entirely at his disposal for this work. In the Dutch Indies there are 15,000 lepers. The army already cares for 3,000 of them, and General Booth has made arrangements to assist 2,000 more.

When General William Booth, the founder of the army, was in Canada in 1907, he said: "If God were to call me from this platform this afternoon, the same cable that would announce 'The general is dead,' would say, 'Long live the general,' for there would be another ready to step into my place."

When the General died in 1913, a very prominent writer concerning social problems, and a friend of the Salvation Army, expressed the opinion of a great many people when he said: "It will be interesting to watch the work of the army during the next ten years." The war served to show what the Salvation Army could do, the prophecy of General William Booth was fulfilled, and to-day the army is as anxious to prove as ever that a park of the divine lies hidden in the soul of the wastrel.

General Bramwell Booth was born in Halifax, England, on March 8, 1856, and is 64 years of age.

Only one-third of the inhabitants of Chicago are Americans. The population of the earth doubles itself in about 260 years.

HERE are four riddles for boys and girls with wise heads. We told the artist to draw the pictures to represent the riddles, but he guessed the right answers—and put them in too! So we barred him from the contest and told him to keep it a secret. Luckily, he got the answers all jumbled up, so you won't be any the wiser.

If you can unscramble the jumbled letters beneath each riddle picture and put them in their right order to spell the right words, you will have the right answers. It isn't an easy task. Good thinking, patience and perseverance may find you the answers. Try it.

If you think you have found the answers, write them carefully on a sheet of white paper. Put on nothing but your four answers and your name and address in the upper right-hand corner of the page. Handwriting, spelling, punctuation and general neatness will count if more than one answer is correct.

We will write and tell you immediately if you are correct, and send you a handsome illustrated list of all the prizes that you can win.

125000 Out Of Work In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—J. L. Benton, managing director of the Philadelphia Textile Manufacturers' Association, in a statement to-day declared the manufacturers had determined to "free themselves from radical unionism," as well as of a large number of inefficient workers.

"Between 110,000 and 125,000 employees of textile mills in Philadelphia will be out of work this winter, unless they watch their step," said Mr. Benton. "The weeding out has already begun. Approximately 40,000 have already been dropped. Whether the remainder will follow depends to a considerable extent upon the workers themselves."

"The textile manufacturers are not opposed to unions. They believe labor organizations have done and will do good. But they are opposed to radical leaders and are going to the mat here and now with them."

Mr. Benton predicted a general stabilization of the textile trades within the next sixty days, followed by a marked reduction in prices to the consumer. "Wages will not be cut," he added, "until the purchasing power of the dollars is as near as possible to normal."

There are approximately 700 textile mills in Philadelphia, giving employment to about 225,000 workers, with a normal weekly payroll of more than $2,000,000.

To Regulate Births

Society Formed in Germany For This Purpose.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The German society for the international regulation of the population is on the trail of "old Doctor Stork," and intends, if possible, to clip the old bird's wings.

The society which has just been organized in Berlin, asserts that the only way to prevent future war is to curtail the stork's activities, thus preventing the manufacture of cannon fodder for those terrible governments which are now busily engaged in fostering and encouraging increases in the population.

"There are too many people on earth. Their number must be reduced. If future wars are to be avoided the wings of the stork must be clipped and the birth rate reduced. The world war was nature's way of reducing the number of humans who were overburdening the earth."

Thus declares "Der Mensch Erde Bund" or "Mankind Earth League," which has been organized and registered in Berlin by Wilhelm Doms, artist and sociological writer, together with others. Its official name is the "German Society for the International Regulation of Population."

The society is the answer of Doms and his associates to the league towards the housing problem, the world's unemployment conditions, starvation and misery in general and in spite of the millions of lives, acctual and potential, blighted by the great war, it is declared that there are "still too many people on earth." The society declares that the only chance of salvation for the world lies in putting the stork in a cage and reducing his activity.

The league calls the world war "a necessity of nature," caused by overpopulation of Europe, and insists that the nationalization of property or communism will not solve any problem, because there are too many participants. If everything were to be equally divided none would have much and none would be contented.

The league contends that governments now encourage increased population in order to have a continual supply of cannon fodder, and that large families encourage war. It insists that humanitarianism helps but little and not for long the large masses of new human beings that are brought into the world.

The league allots two children to each family, but that is the limit. Any number in excess of that number makes for "masses, slums and barracks, and turns the world into a prison."

FAIR RENTALS ACT DRAFTED

Its Objective Is To Check High Rentals.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—The Ontario Government has the draft of a Fair Rentals Act prepared, to be submitted as early as possible at the next session of the legislature. This action follows the request of the deputation which met the government recently for action against rent profiteers.

Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, explained yesterday that the draft was merely tentative, but it will probably be the working basis for the real bill. According to the bill a standard rent will be set which will be the rent of some back date, and then the bill will fix a percentage which may be added to that standard rent to meet the increased costs, etc., of maintenance. The standard and the percentage increase is left a blank in the draft bill.

Hon. Mr. Raney explained that the aim of the act will be to suppress oppression and profiteering. On the other hand, he said, landlords are entitled to a legitimate income, and nothing must be done which will have the effect of discouraging building operations. It was for that reason, he said, that the standard and percentages had been left blank until both the landlord and tenant classes had been given an opportunity to express their opinions.

The Clauses

The principal clauses in the bill follow:

"This act shall apply only to a city the council of which passes a by-law declaring that it shall apply, and only to dwelling-houses the standard rent of which does not exceed $100 a month in cities having a population over 200,000, and $60 in other cities.

"Dwelling house" shall mean premises occupied for dwelling purposes other than a room in a hotel, lodging-house or rooming house.

"Landlord," "tenant," shall include any person from time to time deriving title under the original landlord or tenant.

"Standard rent" shall mean the rent at which the dwelling house was let on the . . . day of . . . 19 . . . or where the dwelling-house was not let on that day, the rent at which it was last let before that day, or where it was first let after that day, the rent at which it was first let.

Can Recover Increased Rental.
"Any increase in the rent of a dwelling-house exceeding . . . per cent. of the standard rent shall not be recoverable, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary heretofore or hereafter made.

"Where the landlord incurs expenditure on the improvement or structural alteration (not including expenditure for decoration or ordinary repairs) of a dwelling-house, an increase in rent in addition to that allowed by subsection 1, but not exceeding 10 per cent. on the amount actually expended on such improvement or structural alteration may be charged by the landlord.

"The landlord, on the request of the tenant, shall furnish to him a statement setting out the standard rent of the house, and if he fails to do so within fourteen days or furnishes a statement which is false in any particular, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding $50.

"Any rent paid by the tenant after the 31st day of October, 1920, in excess of that allowed by section 4 may be recovered by him from the landlord or may be deducted from the rent.

County Court Case.

"Any dispute between the landlord and tenant arising out of the foregoing provisions shall be heard and determined by a judge of the county or district court on the application of either party, and the decision of such judge shall be final.

"This act shall not apply to houses erected after or in course of erection at the passing of this act."

The proposed act also guards against unsanitary conditions, giving the board of health power to decide if the premises are unsanitary.

Denunciation Unwise.

Indiscriminate and wholesale denunciation of landlords as "rent profiteers" should cease, in the opinion of Rev. Dr. J. G. Shearer, secretary of the social service council. He says it is one of the factors which is at the moment discouraging house construction in Toronto.

"Get after the real rent profiteer and deal as summarily with him as you wish," suggested the social service council secretary, "but the landlords as a class are not likely to come forward to defend themselves from superficial criticism. They are likely to simply decline to invest further money in house construction."

A Message to Skin Sufferers

For years perhaps you have had to endure discomfort, disfigurement, humiliation, or even daily torture and sleepless nights, because of some skin disease. Times without number you have followed some hopeful advice and each time you have met only disappointment and despair.

"Who knows?" you ask, "Whose advice may I follow?"

Here is a frank and honest answer:

Reputable physicians admit they can only give you the true cause of skin disease. Some say it is a blood disease—to be treated through the blood. Others say it is a skin disease—to be treated through the skin. But they are not sure and we would be foolish to try to tell you what even science does not know.

We can tell you, however, about a doctor's prescription for skin disease that has been successfully used for 35 years, and we merely ask you to read letters from those who have used it.

A Doctor's Prescription

D.D.D. is the prescription of a physician, Dr. D. D. Deane, who first prescribed it to his own (brotherhood) patients 35 years ago. Today its sale is enormous. Even so, we do not about the thousands that D. D. D. is a miracle. It is just a common sense lotion compounded of well known healing and soothing ingredients, such as thymol, oil of wintergreen, etc. We make no extravagant claims. We say only this: That for 35 years, day after day, letters have simply poured in—without our solicitation or solicitation—telling us gratefully of restored health and happiness.

If you ask us what is the name of D. D. D. we answer, we can only say, "D.D.D."—the name of the doctor who has been following letters and judging the treatment.

First Doctor—Then a Skin Specialist—Then a Doctor of D. D. D.

I was a sufferer for ten years with eczema on the face and neck. I tried every natural and artificial remedy but to no avail. I then read in a newspaper that D. D. D. was a skin disease cure and so I bought a bottle of D. D. D. and used it as directed. I was so much pleased that I sent for a dollar bottle and a case of soap. That is all I used, and I am now perfectly cured. Thanks to D. D. D. 25 Melbourne Ave., Toronto, Ont., Can. J. W. CHASE.

Sal Rheum Covered Her Face Every Winter
I used one sample bottle of D. D. D. and one dollar bottle and it cured my face of Sal Rheum. I could not believe it. I tried every natural and artificial remedy but to no avail. I then read in a newspaper that D. D. D. was a skin disease cure and so I bought a bottle of D. D. D. and used it as directed. I was so much pleased that I sent for a dollar bottle and a case of soap. That is all I used, and I am now perfectly cured. Thanks to D. D. D. 25 Melbourne Ave., Toronto, Ont., Can. J. W. CHASE.

Terrible Weeping Eczema
I suffered with weeping eczema on my hands. I was obliged to give up my work. I was told to try D. D. D. and so I did. When I had used but half a dollar bottle my hands were healed. 32 Bond St., London, Ont. MRS. K. HAYES.

Some of these letters may seem too unorthodox, but remember, they were written in ecstasy of relief from years of suffering. What wouldn't you give to be able to write us in the same spirit of happiness? We will not say these grateful correspondents are healed or cured—we will simply say they are HAPPY AGAIN—after years of pain and suffering. We make no sweeping claims. You can get greater comfort and confidence from what D. D. D. has done for 35 years than from anything we can say.

D.D.D. Prescription will be found effective in cases of Eczema, Psoriasis, Itch, Dermatitis, Scabies, Ringworm, etc. It is all over it. D. D. D. gives relief from itching and the pain of the disease.

Trial Bottle Sent on Request

Without making any promise of microscopic results, we urge you to send the coupon today for a trial bottle of the famous D.D.D. Prescription. Make the request, refraining from feeling after the first few drops. We have letters stating that our trial bottle alone was enough to free some sufferers from the torment of skin disease. If then, you are afflicted with eczema, psoriasis, itchy skin, scabies, pimples, or any form of skin disease, send the coupon and we will send you a trial bottle of D.D.D. Prescription. Enclose only ten cents to cover cost of packing and postage. Do not delay.

VERY MILD FALL

Northern Ontario Has Summer Weather, Too

HAILEYBURY, Oct. 21.—Northern Ontario, as though determined not to be outdone by Southern Ontario in respect to freaks of nature, is also yielding, in a small way at least, its second crop of wild strawberries, while tennis and golf are being freely indulged in.

Whereas in former years it had been the custom to start the furnace going about the first week in October, this year the last week of the month looms near with flannels very much in evidence, and with no hints of autumn, with the exception of the red and gold tint which is gradually creeping over the forest. As each succeeding bright and balmy day adds to the grand total, pioneers of the north become more and more amazed.

In the place of the sullen rainfall of past Octobers, with the intermittent flurries of sleet and snow, all Northern Ontario is this year enjoying unprecedented sunshine. Warm breezes from the south waft over the land, dust rises summerlike in the wake of passing motor cars, while the perfume of autumn leaves and flowers fills the air with delicate contrast of the impending northern blast which must inevitably sweep over the land, lying, as it does, almost in the shadow of the Pole.

Draper (remonstrating with assistant for unpleasantness to a customer): "Miss Jones, you must remember a customer is always right."

Miss Jones: "Well, sir, she said you were an old shark."
